Anyone who doubts there is still a lot of goodwill on earth should talk to Mrs. Darlene Rockenbach.

Mrs. Rockenbach's two sons, Joseph Edward and James David, died in a fire Dec. 1 at the family home at 1244

Since then, strangers and friends alike have pitched in cash, goods and services to help out.

"I just can't believe how wonderful people have been," Mrs. Rockenbach said. "I think it's really nice. I don't know exactly how to accept it, but I want people to know I'm grateful."

Belmont School Principal Daniel M. Conway said children, parents and staff at the school donated $281.20 to a special fund for the family.

An account opened in the family's name at Cornhusker Bank has attracted $230.09 in contributions from the community. Money collected in 40 cannisters distributed to businesses, mostly in northwest Lincoln, has not yet been counted, bank officials said.

Besides $520.29 in cash, several businesses and families have offered furnishings and labor.

Dick Putnam, president of Floors Inc. at 5616 S. 49th donated carpeting and labor for two bedrooms and the living room. A group of Mrs. Rockenbach's childhood friends furnished her kitchen with a new stove, dishes and small appliances.

Harris Pine Mills at 4909 Stockwell chipped in two bedroom suits and the Red Cross offered two mattresses, bedding and towels in addition to paying the first month's rent on the family's new apartment at 4715 Bancroft.

A fund collected by five Lincoln Seventh Day Adventist churches will be used to buy living room furniture and a new clothes washer.

Ford, Israeli Discuss Steps

Washington (UPI) - President Ford and Israeli Foreign Minister Yigal Allon discussed possible next steps in Middle East peacekeeping Monday, assigning priority to moves that would help achieve a permanent settlement.

Details of the talks were not immediately ailable but diplomats said in advance a broad range of alternative action plans would be discussed.

Allon, who is also Israel's deputy prime minister, spent an hour and 15 minutes in the Oval Office with Ford and Secretary of State Henry Kissinger.

"The President stressed the importance of moving ahead on further steps in the negotiations toward a genuine peace settlement," White House press secretary Ron Nessen said. "He was assured by Minister Allon that the Israeli government shares this view. The meeting provided the chance for both sides to review possible approaches in this next stage of the negotiations." The statement said Ford and Allon "had a full exchange of views on this Middle East situation" and also discussed matters pertaining to U.S.-

Israeli relations. Israel signalled last week it might be willing to make further territorial concessions - pulling back from some of the ground it has gained since 1967 in return for peace commitments from such Arab states as Egypt. Allon was here to tell Ford and

Ford and Kissinger needed some negotiating ammunition from Israel before the secretary of state could embark on another Middle East "shuttle diplomacy" trip, perhaps as early as late next month, diplomats said.

Later in the afternoon, Kissinger abruptly canceled plans to appear before the House Foreign Affairs Committee to renew his plea against cutting off military aid to Turkey.

Godwill Tough Energy Policy Urged

LINCOLN, NEB.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Top energy officials in the Ford administration said Monday they think the governmennt will have to adopt mandatory measures to conserve energy.

Interior Secretary Rogers C.B. Morton told the opening session of a three-day public hearing on U.S. energy policy: "I think we've got to come up with some awful tough turkey." The administration uses those words to characterize mandatory fuel-saving measures.

Energy-chief designate Frank G. Zarb told a reporter after opening three days of hearings on incresing domestic refining capacity: "My own personal view is that we're going to have to take stronger measures" to cut back consumption of expensive foreign oil.

Morton, chairman of the cabinet-level Energy Resources Council, made his statement at council hearings in preparation for a conference of its members at Camp David, Md., on Saturday. The council will make recommendations to President Ford for presentation to Congress in January.

In response to recommendations by consumer spokesmen for strong Energy conservation measures and protection against high prices, Morton said that the administration must come up with ideas that can be achieved politically. He endorsed no specific proposals.

The real policy question we face is not either conservation or (energy) development," Morton said. "The major decision is how do we balance these two strategies . . . How much conservation can the economy withstand? What should be the pace of resource development?'

Zarb, nominated by President Ford to succeed the ousted John C. Sawhill as head of the Federal Energy Administration, called the FEA hearing into domestic refining capacity. He said it was "too

But he said some of the measures being considered include a gasoline tax and restrictions on oil imports.

President Ford will fly to New York on Tuesday to seek energy advice from Vice Presidentdesignate Nelson A. Rockefeller and some members of Rockefeller's Commission on Critical Choices for America.

The President is described as open-minded on all possible options, which could indicate a change from his previously expressed opposition to mandatory measures such as a gasoline tax or allocations of gasoline and heatinng oil. Ford intends to make up his mid on energy options during the Christmas-New Year holidays, when he is expected to be vacationing at the ski resort of Vail, Lee White, a spokesman for the Consumer Federation of America, told the Energy Resources Council hearing the administration should support standby authority for gasoline rationing. White said he would like to see it used immediately.

White also urged limits on oil imports, federal standards for automobile fuel efficiency, some form of federal standards for building insulation and efforts to make sure natural gas is not burned wastefully in boilers that could use other fuels.

Gary DeLoss, representing the Corporate Accountability Research Groups, said oil companies were already making high windfall profits and that oil prices should be controlled and rolled back. DeLoss also suggested that coal prices be brought under federal regulation.

Ben Kruger of Pollack, S.D., is ready for another warm winter. Kruger says he has used only 25 gallons of fuel oil for heat in the past two years and has two or three years' worth of wood in a pile that is 20 feet long, 15 feet wide and 12 feet high.

Consumer Claims Cengas Charged Her Too Much

By GERRY SWITZER Star Staff Writer

A claim that a consumer was overcharged for gas consumption over a year's period was taken under advisement Monday by Lancaster County Judge Raiph Slocum following a twohour hearing.

In the first case brought against Cengas by a consumer in Lancaster County Small Claims Court, Ann Barton alleges that she was overcharged for gas consumption for the 1973-74 budget year as compared with the previous year.

Although there were rate increases during the 1973-74 period. Barton said she didn't feel with her efforts to conserve energy during the 1973-74 winter months that her total year's bill should have been 96% higher than the previous year.

On Budget Plan She explained to the court that she was on the budget plan with Cengas whereby she was charged a set amount each month with the adjustment being made at the end of the year in June. She said that in the 1972-73 year her total year's bill was $203.60 after she received a $30 refund at the close of that year's billing period. However, she said, at the close of the 1973-74 billing period, she was notified she owed $166.63 more than she had paid throughout the year on her budget plan. "I don't see how this is possible, when I felt I used less gas because I made a concerted effort to conserve fuel last year," Barton said.

She testified that she had followed the suggestions made by Cengas last year for consumers to conserve fuel including turning down the heat, turning off the stove pilot light, disconnecting the outdoor gaslight and closing the registers in unused portions of the house.

1973-74 Was Warmer Documents from the U.S. Weather Bureau and a climatologist were also submitted by Barton showing that the total 1973-74 year was a wartner year than the previous

Representatives from Cengas agreed that this appeared to be a considerable increase, but the meter showed the increased consumption for which Barton was

The plaintiff contended that since Cengas had checked the meter and claimed that there was no malfunction, it was possible there had been an error in the meter reading at the end of the 1972-73 billing period and that the $30 refund may not actually have been due her.

However, she argued, if this were the case, then she was still being overcharged because the error was picked up in the following year at higher rates.

No Way Of Knowing Cengas officials contended there was no way of knowing if there had been an error in the reading the year before or if there had been some malfunction in the meter during a portion of the 1973-74 year since they had records of only one responsibility of the consumer to watch to make sure nothing is wrong with the meter on a monthly basis so that Cengas can check any apparent erratic

He noted that other years, according to figures provided by Cengas, showed gas consumption for the dwelling to be in line every year since 1968 until last

Consumption Jumps The figures presented by Cengas showed an average consumption for those years to be 2,711 HCF (hundred cubic feet) while last year jumped to 3,942 as compared with the 1972-73

Judge Slocum said it appeared that unless a consumer takes all the readings himself and checks the rates, there is no way to go back and show the readings or Economists said the cost of the economy plan on a monthly basis for a family of four rose to $156 in October compared with $155.10 in September and $138.40 a year earlier. Under the food stamp program, a four-person household currently is eligible for a monthly allocation of $150 worth of stamps.

The allocation is scheduled to rise to $154 Jan. 1. But this will still lag behind the cost of the economy diet, and stamp families will fall farther behind if the administration carries out its announced plan to increase the amount of cash most needy people must put up in order to get the stamps, beginning March Mooneyham suggested that restaurant operators give their patrons the choice between a regular portion and a so-called children's portion.

Space was the name of the game during a City Council debate Monday over the continuing controversy of who goes where in the County-City Building.

This time the debate was sparked by the city's Municipal Court judges, who politely asked whatever happened to that promised fourth courtroom promised for more than a year and still not constructed.

The lawmakers said they have been more than willing to get the courtroom built - but it's the county that's to blame.

Said Council Chairwoman Helen Boosalis, "We've shuffled our feet a million times on this and now where are we?"

Variety of Plans The shuffling has included a hodge podge of plans to relocate various offices in the building. Until Monday the latest one called for the moving out of the State Motor Vehicles office so that the city's Personnel Department can be moved into that space. The personnel office then would be converted into the courtroom for Judge Jan Gradwohl, appointed by the governor in April.

Judge Gradwohl is presently operating out of a closet and holding court in any spare space she can find. And in the meantime, Judge

Thomas McManus said the caseload is piling up and warned the council that a fifth judge and corresponding courtroom will be needed in the not-too-distant

McManus also reported that the probation department is "completely overloaded" and that within the next year the judges will seek money to remodel present court facilities.

Last February city and county officials thought they had the answer. But although the county has been searching for space to stash Motor Vehicles, no

The council delayed action on the administration's request to move those divisions from the proposed site at 7th and H to 7th and Charleston. Public Works Director Bob Obering explained that it is not desirable to remodel the International Harvester building at 7th and H because of poor soil conditions and limited space. Obering said the 7th and Charleston location would allow the consolidation of several offices, including the road division at 19th and Q, under one roof and would be more efficient in the long run

Several lawmakers questioned the desirability of moving city offices to another location other than the County-City Building.

Council Debates Shuffling Offices buildings have been found.

By LYNN ZERSCHLING Star Staff Writer

Space was the name of the game during a City Council debate Monday over the continuing controversy of who goes where in the County-City Building.

This time the debate was sparked by the city's Municipal Court judges, who politely asked whatever happened to that promised fourth courtroom promised for more than a year and still not constructed.

The lawmakers said they have been more than willing to get the courtroom built - but it's the county that's to blame.

Said Council Chairwoman Helen Boosalis, "We've shuffled our feet a million times on this and now where are we?"

Councilwoman Sue Bailey's Variety of Plans proposal to hire someone to The shuffling has included a hodge podge of plans to relocate various offices in the building. Until Monday the latest one 'premature" because the City-County Implementation Commission has recommended the creation of a joint city-county building commission. The commission would be charged with overseeing the building's operation, space needs and maintenance.

But, Sikyta declared, "If we can get any action out of this it's not premature. We've been trying to work this out for three years.

Master Plan In a related matter, Sikyta said the request of the Public Works Department to build a traffic engineering and engineering building only points to the need for a master plan dealing with space needs. The council delayed action on the administration's request to move those divisions from the proposed site at 7th and H to 7th and Charleston. Public Works Director Bob Obering explained that it is not desirable to remodel the International Harvester building at 7th and H because of poor soil conditions and limited space. Obering said the 7th and Charleston location would allow the consolidation of several offices, including the road division at 19th and Q, under one roof and would be more efficient in the long run. Several lawmakers questioned the desirability of moving city offices to another location other than the County-City Building.

They noted that it is the responsibility of the consumer to watch to make sure nothing is wrong with the meter on a monthly basis so that Cengas can check any apparent erratic billing periods.

Judge Slocum posed the question that if the readings were accurate, "where could the gas have gone during the 1973-74 year, while previous years showed considerably less con-

Cengas showed an average consumption for those years to be 2,711 HCF (hundred cubic feet) while last year jumped to 3,942 as compared with the 1972-73 year which showed 2,154. Judge Slocum said it appeared that unless a consumer takes all the readings himself and checks the rates, there is no way to go back and show the readings or rates were wrong.

He said it seems strange "but the gas went somewhere.

Watergate prosecutor accused John E Ehrlichman Monday of writing a "phony" report in April 1973 and then trying to introduce the document as evidence that he took no part in the Watergate cover-up

With Ehrlichman on the stand in his own defense, prosecutor James F. Neal said the report was designed solely for the protection of Ehrlichman and others "in case things came unstuck.'

The eight-page, undated, hand-written report on White House stationery was discovered about a month ago in a box among Ehrlichman's files remaining at the White House.

The document names three of Ehrlichman's co-defendants at the Watergate cover-up trial as participants in the cover-up.

evidence that Ehrlichman made a sincere attempt at the request of former President Richard M. Nixon to ferret out the facts of Watergate.

When other defense lawyers objected that the jury should not hear the report, U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica asked Neal for his view.

The prosecutor pointed out that former White House counsel John W. Dean III had already warned Nixon by March 21, 1973, about the dangers and most of the facts of Watergate.

Neal said that on March 21, 1973, Dean "gave the President of the United States a far more complete and better report than this and doesn't try to protect himself and doesn't -- I must say this - make it as phony as this report."

Neal said the Ehrlichman report "never went anywhere because it was one coconspirator, giving a self-serving statement to another coconspirator to rely on in case things came unstuck."

The prosecutor said he is unable to "see that this is anything but a charade in which (Ehrlichman and Nixon) were to help protect one another once the cover-up began coming apart."

Ehrlichman testified that after interviewing several persons involved in Watergate, he drafted the report in the middle of the night on April 14 and handed it to Nixon the next day.

NEW YORK (AP) Wholesale sugar prices moved lower again Monday.

Amstar, the nation's biggest refiner, said it was cutting prices immediately on grocery sugar by $3.60 a 100 pounds. The cut brings Amstar's wholesale price to $39.54 for a bundle of 12 fivepound bags.

Sucrest Inc., another big Northeast refiner, said it was matching Amstar's decrease, bringing its price for 12 five-

Last week Amstar and the other refiners announced their first big price cut in more than 18 months. Successive, sharp increases were attributed to short supplies and continuing demand.

In recent weeks, however, the price of raw sugar on world markets has dropped, largely in response to what brokers said

Miniconvention Seen As Climax To Bursts

Ohe Kete Hock Cimes

By R. W. APPLE JR. Kansas City, Mo. — There have been two great bursts of reform in the postwar Democratic Party — the one symbolized by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey that grew out of the 1948 convention at Philadelphia, and the one symbolized by Sen. George McGovern that grew out of the 1968 convention at Chicago.

In a sense, what happened in Kansas City constituted a climax to both.

The national party charter adopted here is not graven in granite. No doubt it will be modified in years to come, and like all political documents, it will be subjected to some tortured interpretations to serve the partisan ends of those seeking power. But a new norm - a norm of relative openness - has been established, and it appears unlikely that that will soon be deviated from.

McGovern Reforms Recast

The McGovern reforms of 1972, in other words, have not been undone, as some elements of the party had hoped; they have been tempered, modified, recast. There will not soon again be a Democratic convention as white.

New Summitry Wears A Three-Cornered Hat

PARIS — Leonid Brezhnev's visit to Paris is part of a curious triangle of summitry at least indirectly related to nuclear affairs although in France the subject is unlikely to have been more than mentioned in passing.

Brezhnev saw President Ford in Vladivostok. Then he was the guest of President Giscard d'Estaing. This week the French chief of state flies to Martinique and his first talk with Ford. All three are what is known as "working visits."

The Brezhnev-Ford dialogue concluded an accord between the two superpowers that is sup-

When the Vladivostok conversations ended, Secretary of State Kissinger (who had designed and guided the U.S. approach) flew to Peking, another if far smaller atomic power, to explain the implications of the latest Soviet-American deal. Peking didn't think much of it - or of Brezhnev's unfriendly speech directed right afterward to arms race although skeptics at the present moment when France's nuclear arsenal was nucleonics is Topic A; but it is no accident that France has maintained a pre-eminence among second-rank powers by steadily pursuing a policy of atomic defense ever since the 1956 defeat in the Suez war.

When De Gaulle founded the Fifth Republic two years later, he souped this up into cogent diplomatic strategy. While the general explained to the doubting Kennedy administration that his "force de dissuasion" was designed to deter a potential enemy by threatening " to tear an arm off" (not destroy him) and thus make him think twice, posed to have put a "cap" on the be an accident that this happens the unspoken innuendo of

It aimed as much at gaining ascendancy over friends in peacetime as at warding off enemies in wartime. Thus Paris achieved a diplomatic lead even over Bonn, although financially and industrially West Germany is far stronger than France. And, now that Britain is wallowing in economic swamps and cutting its military establishment, the French are forging relatively

Their little nuclear force is not very significant in terms of potential all-out conflict and resulting holocaust; but it remains independent in manufacture as well as function. Britain's declining atomic strength relies unabashedly on American technical aid.

* * * Although Giscard was always regarded as a luke-warm Gaullist supporter when he served as Finance minister, he has shown signs of more enthusiastic endorsement of some Gaullist policies now that he is the country's chief executive. Among the latter is the "force de dissuasion." The president underscored his interest by taking a lengthy submerged cruise in one of France's present colloquy with Brezhnev is that the Russians have signaled to Paris (and thereby to NATO) that Moscow regards the French "force de dissuasion" as part of the West's over-all nuclear strength.

This has special importance now because Brezhnev reversed previous policy by conceding to Ford that U.S. and other NATO warheads and delivery systems based in Europe and capable of reaching the U.S.S.R. are not to be curbed by the Vladivostok agreement or considered part of America's so-called "forward base system.'

☆ ☆ ☆ Obviously France (which has limitations treaty) would never for an instant have agreed to permit other powers - either its American ally or its Russian friend — to negotiate in any way on vital French matters like France's stance. Yet it is quietly proud to have its small deterrent recognized as an allied asset. Paris always stresses that it remains loyal to the Atlantic Alliance even though its nationalistic interpretations of this make it an odd-man-out.

Soviet acceptance of France's nuclear armament and its relationship to NATO's over-all posture makes for a positive background in the forthcoming Martinuque talks with the U.S.

President. France's atomic force is tiny by superpower standards but it is well on the way to completed establishment of modern land-based and submarine-borne missiles as well as tactical aircraft with a speed more than twice that of sound.

This modest strength will never be summoned into active use — unless one of the other superpower first decides to destroy the world (and thereby itself); but it has already achieved for Paris an international diplomatic ranking it would not otherwise have had witness the Brezhnev and Ford summits with Giscard.

It is no secret that our abundant supply of water is the foundation of our agricultural industry and that that industry, in turn, is the foundation of the state's economy. It is predicted that this state could rise to as high as third in farm productivity in the nation and that we could more than double our current number of irrigated acres.

That is the potential side of the picture. The state, however, is rapidly depleting its underground water sources in many areas. Additionally, it is still allowing more water to leave the state than is held here for future use.

WASHINGTON — When Congress travels abroad, it is supposed to focus on sober facts and figures. But lately, to escape the cruel realities, the junketeers have focused on figures belonging to Viennese waltzers, opera singers and pretty girls at gay amusement parks.

Congressmen with less roving eyes have settled for hydrofoil trips to Capri, Rhine castles and lush cocktail parties. One enterprising legislator, Rep. Banjamin Gilman, R-N.Y., even used the good offices of the State Department and Israeli government to get his son a "bar mitzvah" at the Western Wall in Jerusalem. The never-ending chronicle of congressional visits to faraway places are stored in the internal files of the State Department, which has the delicate job of shepherding the wandering flock.

When, for example, Rep. Frank Annunzio, D-III., decided to lead fellow Banking Committee members to Europe, it was not the dour counting houses of Zurich that occupied them. but the vivacious music of Austria and the ferris wheels of Copenhagen's Tivoli Gardens.

"Congressional Delegation requests four tickets to Waltz Concert Imperial Palace for fifteenth and for Barber of Seville on sixteenth," reads an urgent State Department request to U.S. diplomats in Vienna. To Copenhagen, went an equally pre-emptory order:

"Congressional Delegation interested in seeing things ... such ≈ Tivoli Garden, Hamlet's castles . . . " The U.S. embassy in Bonn was instructed to plan a "Rhine rivertrip to see castles."

In Naples, a romantic hydrofoil voyage to Capri was arranged just after dusk fell on the beautiful Gulf of Naples. But the State Department began to worry that this might cut into the junketeers' cocktail time.

Forthwith, a cable was fired off by the U.S. mission in sampling of their infinite Naples:

"Request immediate confirmation from Department" on whether the Capri trip should be at 7:10 p.m. or 8 p.m. "Former means a rushed drink, the latter a more congenial one. Please ad-

And with summer heat Consulte and presented with spots, cables flashed to Cologne, Copenhagen and Rome, saying "Congressional Delegation inquiring if air-conditioned space is available . . . Advise Priority.'

Sometimes the State Department, which employs 25 fulltime staffers to indulge the Capitol Hill travelers, is assisted by other governments and even private companies.

When Rep. Gilman made a private visit to the Mideast last August, the Israeli government set up a "bar mitzvah" (confirmation ceremony) for his son. The State Department handled the communications work.

"GOI (government of Israel) arranging schedule based on (Gilman's) expressed interests and son's Bar Mitzvah at Western Wall," our embassy in Tel Aviv advised Washington. "Please cable (Gilman's) preference for time and date of Bar Mitzvah."

More insidiously, the giant oil combine, Aramco, babied a House Public Works delegation in Saudi Arabia. Rep. James Howard, D-N.J., and two staffers were supposedly getting an impartial look at how Aramco and other companies based in Saudi Arabia use Arabian ports.

"Aramco handling all details (of the congressmen's) visit, including transportation, housing and area tour," said one classified State Department cable. "It now appears (the U.S.) consulate general is relieved of all logistical support . . . will provide rooms within its compound.

The State Department politely made sure the congressmen's requests for "pictorial coverage" was passed on to the proper oil company authorities. One of Rep. Howard's staffers insisted to us that this hand-inglove relationship with Aramco "didn't hamstring us" in getting an objective view of Saudi ports.

The internal files at State bulge with such cables. Here is a

-Rep. Dan Kuykendall, R-Tenn., made a private trip to Martinique but called on the State Department to provide him with the amenities. "The Congressions and his wife were met by a representative of the beating down on the vacation briefing packets," reported U.S. diplomats in Martinique to Washington. "Thereafter, they enjoyed a privately chauffered tour . . . which had been arranged by the Consulate."

> —When Rep. Marjorie Holt, R-Md., lost her luggage in Europe, frantic cable traffic reflected State Department efforts to find it. Finally, our envoys to Munich crowed, "holding one piece of luggage belonging to Marjorie Holt." It was sent speedily to Paris for shipment home.

> -Sen. John Pastore, D-R.I., is best known as a watchdog over the broadcast and atomic energy industries. But during a trip by Pastore on behalf of the Joint Atomic Energy Committee, Pastore was identified in cable traffic by a title more important to the State Department: "Chairman, State Department Appropriations subcommittee."

* * * Sometimes Washington seems an enormous "Fuddle Factory" where everything goes wrong for the ordinary Americans the bureaucracy is supposed to

For example, E. H. Weder, head of the Highland (III.) Manufacturing and Sales Co., had for years sold cellophane Easter grass, which was flammable. When the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) ordered him to stop, he dutifully complied.

At the cost of $950,000, he destroyed his flammable stocks and converted his machines to produce safe, non-flammable grass. But he and many of his employes had to work 16 hours a day to fill enough new grass orders to stave off bankruptcy. Then, a few months ago, he saw unsafe flammable grass for sale in a drug store. To his bewilderment, he learned that the government had given the go-ahead to another manufacturer as long as the dangerous Easter grass was marked "Flam-

Three Complaints

Lincoln, Neb. Why does the governor of Nebraska have to have a bodyguard? Is living in Nebraska that dangerous? I read where it is hard for returning veterans to get jobs, but the University of Nebraska gives a returning "slacker" a job and one that no one else has applied for. Is it possible that one of the "liberals" made the job for him? Is it necessary that the mayor of Lincoln should go to a

On Socialized Medicine

Lincoln, Neb. There is no doubt in raising salaries of hospital workers, we all need a national health plan (socialized medicine). But we do not need what is being proposed with the insurance companies administering it. It should be funded like the Old Age Survivors and Insurance Program (Social Security) and run by the federal government. The insurance companies should be kept out of it.

While I am generally against more involvement of the federal government, this is justified. For years the hospital workers were lowly paid and some still are. So are dish-washers, but many a dish-washer has reached the end of the road with only himself to blame. Not so the hospital employes. Their unionization is changing all this and making it bankrupting to be in a hospital. So national health insurance will have to come about.

Federal revenue-sharing to local governments is a poor way to do it. The money goes to Washington for one reason. The federal income tax is more collectible because of its serious penalties than the state income tax. The best way would be for all of us to see that it would be cheaper to appropriate the money to the city, county and state rather than send it to Washington and have it make a return trip. These words are in vain, for politicians being what they are, they will confuse the issue in order to exploit the taxpayer!

Five Years Too Late

Syracuse, Neb. Rip Van Winkle slept for 20 years. Upon awaking, he knew nothing about what had happened while he slept.

At the November 5, 1974, election polls, voters were confused. The common remark was, what the hell is a natural resource district? How in the hell can I vote intelligently for someone I don't know, who lives 80 miles away.

One citizen branded the natural resources district as a monstrosity passed by the 1969 Legislature.

I recall there was one organization known as the Nebraskans for Nebraska Soil and Water, formulated by a group of interested people in the southeast and other parts of Nebraska, which opposed the dissolution of soil and water conservation districts and watershed conservancy districts and the general concept of this legislation. This organization printed and sent out over the state, 5,000 pamphlets which outlined in detail the contents of this act known as LB1357, the NRDs. Evidently this information was discarded and Nebraska voters slept through it all.

Now, five years later, some have begun to see the light but it is too late. Thereupon the ballots tell the story, and Nebraska

This natural resource legislation authorized districts to hire a manager for each district; salaries now run from $12,000 to $28,000 per year plus mileage. Some managers have a tendency to exercise dictatorial powers, and acquire knowledge looking through the windshield as they drive down the highway!

Some visualize projects monumental in scope, which in turn do nothing but feather their own nest. However, when the sun goes down in the west, the chickens always come home to roost. Relief? — not much — the taxpayer will still pay the bills and

Rip Van Winkle also woke up too late! It can only be said to the legislators who voted for this monstrosity, "Father forgive them for they know not what they do."

Maybe it is just our imagination but it seems to us that there is a heightened concern in Nebraska at this time about the state's water resources. This concern has been seen in the political, educational and agricultural areas of life in Nebraska.

If true, the added interest could be nothing but a benefit to the state, as water is both our hope for the future and our despair. Used wisely and efficiently, it will prove to be our hope. Used poorly and carelessly, it could lead to the neardestruction of the state.

It is no secret that our abundant supply of water is the foundation of our agricultural industry and that that industry, in turn, is the foundation of the state's economy. It is predicted that this state could rise to as high as third in farm productivity in the nation and that we could more than double our current number of irrigated acres.

That is the potential side of the picture. The state, however, is rapidly depleting its underground water sources in many areas. Additionally, it is still allowing more water to leave the state than is held here for future use.

We have so badly managed this resource, in fact, that we face the very real

All of these matters of regulation, use, diversion, storage, etc., will be the subject of legislative attention in 1975. Other states are blessed with an abundance of one thing or another, be it oil, timber, coal or what have you. Nebraska has perhaps the greatest natural blessing of all — its great supply of water.

It would be nothing short of criminal for us to let the coming session of the Legislature go by without fixing responsibility for our major waterways in some new or existing agency of state government. It would be nothing short of criminal if we failed at least to get started on a new program of conservation, of effective utilization of this resource.

We hope the voices of those now speaking up in this matter of water use will continue to make themselves be heard. We hope that the administrative and legislative branches of government come to heed these voices with intelligent planning and

WASHINGTON - When Congress travels abroad, it is supposed to focus on sober facts and figures. But lately, to escape the cruel realities, the junketeers have focused on figures belonging to Viennese waltzers, opera singers and pretty girls at gay amusement parks.

Congressmen with less roving eyes have settled for hydrofoil trips to Capri, Rhine castles and lush cocktail parties. One enterprising legislator, Rep. Banjamin Gilman, R-N.Y., even used the good offices of the State Department and Israeli government to get his son a "bar mitzvah" at the Western Wall in Jerusalem.

The never-ending chronicle of congressional visits to faraway places are stored in the internal files of the State Department, which has the delicate job of shepherding the wandering

When, for example, Rep. Frank Annunzio, D-Ill., decided to lead fellow Banking Committee members to Europe, it was not the dour counting houses of Zurich that occupied them, but the vivacious music of Austria and the ferris wheels of Copenhagen's Tivoli Gardens.

"Congressional Delegation requests four tickets to Waltz Concert Imperial Palace for fifteenth and for Barber of Seville on sixteenth," reads an urgent State Department request to U.S. diplomats in Vienna. To Copenhagen, went an equally pre-emptory order:

"Congressional Delegation interested in seeing things . . . such as Tivoli Garden, Hamlet's castles . . . " The U.S. embassy in Bonn was instructed to plan a "Rhine rivertrip to see castles."

In Naples, a romantic hydrofoil voyage to Capri was arranged just after dusk fell on the beautiful Gulf of Naples. But the State Department began to worry that this might cut into the junketeers' cocktail time.

Forthwith, a cable was fired off by the U.S. mission in

When Rep. Gilman made a private visit to the Mideast last August, the Israeli government set up a "bar mitzvah" (confirmation ceremony) for his son. The State Department handled the communications work.

"GOI (government of Israel) arranging schedule based on (Gilman's) expressed interests and son's Bar Mitzvah at Western Wall," our embassy in Tel Aviv advised Washington. "Please cable (Gilman's) preference for time and date of Bar Mitzvah."

More insidiously, the giant oil combine, Aramco, babied a House Public Works delegation in Saudi Arabia. Rep. James Howard, D-N.J., and two staffers were supposedly getting an impartial look at how Aramco and other companies based in Saudi Arabia use Arabian ports.

"Aramco handling all details (of the congressmen's) visit, including transportation, housing and area tour," said one classified State Department cable. "It now appears (the U.S.) consulate general is relieved of all logistical support . . . will provide rooms within its com-

The ballet was fine, but "fidget time" was best.

That seemed to be the consensus expressed by the swarm (yes, when you get that many schoolchildren together, it's a swarm) of little people attending the Omaha Ballet Company's performance of Tchaikovsky's 'Nutcracker Ballet" Monday After-

"Fidget time," for those of you who might be wondering, was what took place during the intermission, when a dragon-like creature appeared on stage to entertain the youngsters and help them "fidget" (as if they hadn't been doing that already).

For those of us, older in years and creakier in bone, who chose not to join in the organized "Fidget time" squirming and screaming, the half-time show was interesting, but the ballet

I've been getting a lot of letters lately from readers who say, "You're always telling your readers to get out and do something. What can I do? I'm 65 and alone and I hate every minute of it." The words aren't always the same, and often I don't even know whether the letter is from a woman or a man. But the underlying message is did not seem to be getting along that they are experiencing that heart-rending loneliness which is so hard to combat. It's easy enough for me to sit here and tell them to get busy, get going.

What I'm driving at is that they she was able to help her grandwill feel less lonely if they get out among people or, even better, for another (the feeling of being needed is vital to enjoyment of life).

Here are a couple of suggestions of things to do. One came to me from a friend. She took on the task of helping one of her grandchildren, a girl who as well as she should in reading. My friend is a pretty wise lady, so she did some reading and talking to those who understand about reading disabilities, and daughter catch up with her classmates, and, more important, begin to enjoy reading. She told me about it with a certain deserved feeling of pride (a feeling all of us need a lot of), then said, "I'm glad I taught her what she needed to enable her to like reading. But I really miss our sessions together and wish there were some way to keep them up.'

I told her about our county school system's School Volunteer Program. Last year we had 12,201 volunteers, each of whom gave at least two hours and tutoring expecially in a week to help students. Some 215 were senior citizens, but the director of the program wishes she could get many more. Many times the students will ask the older school volunteer questions they'd hesitate to ask of a parent or another student, even though they are volunteers too.

Volunteers receive careful training and placement. Their duties range from assisting with arts and crafts, working with audi-visual materials in classrooms, helping in school clines and offices, counseling, language, arts and math.

The first criterion is caring about children, being willing to listen to them sympathetically. There are so many kinds of duties in the program that a volunteer of any kind of educational background that a volunteer of any kind of educational background who wants to help find a niche that fits his interest, and he will be doing something for himself at the same time that he performs a vital service for a school child. person they're looking for.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court agreed Monday to review the power of a state to cut a family's welfare allowance because there is a "lodger" in the home.

The court will hear an appeal by New York State officials from a decision that such a regulation is unconstitutional.

Critics of the regulation say it is inconsistent with two ralings of the Supreme Court in 1970 striking down state attempts to eliminate or reduce welfare payments when there is a "man in the house."

They say the New York regulation, aimed at "lodgers" of either sex, is an attempt to evade the earlier rulings.

The court also agreed to broaden its consideration of offshore oil rights. It will review a Federal Appeals Court decision permitting Alaska to grant oil and gas

submerged lands are under its jurisdiction because they are more than three miles from the shore of the inlet.

In another case, the court agreed to hear the argument of federal prosecutors that they should be permitted to cross-examine a defendant about his decision to remain silent when arrested.

The court upbeld without comment a Delaware law requiring candidates to pay a fee to get their names on an election ballot. Five candidates had appealed a lower court decision that the act was constitutional as long as it did not prevent a poor person from becoming a candidate.

The justices let stand by a 7-2 vote an Illinois executive order requiring state employes to publicly disclose their financial worth.

Justice William O. Douglas, writing for the majority in refusing to review the decision, said the state "lass an undeniably strong interest in placing beyond question the integrity of its public service."

Justices Harry A. Blackmun and Lewis

The New York welfare regulation was challenged by legal aid groups on behalf of women on welfare who had, respectively, an unrelated man, a sister and a grown son living with them.

A three-judge federal court ruled that it was unconstitutional to assume without proof that these persons were helping pay the rent or that their presence proved the family had more living space than it needed.

Bicycle Touring Has Its Trials

By PATTY BEUTLER Star Staff Writer

Grand Central Station in New York City seems an unlikely place to begin a bike trip up the St. Lawrence River, but that's where Doug Edwards' summer adventure got underway.

After biking two miles through New York rush-hour traffic with six tents and bulging saddlebags. Edwards convinced himself that peddling uphill in the Adirondacks would seem like coasting.

On that encouraging note, the 24-year-old Tilden elementary school teacher rounded up his nine teenage charges - none from Nebraska - and boarded a Buffalo-bound train for the start of a six-week American Youth Hostel bike tour through Canada and upstate New York.

With a week of leadership training under his belt and a 13year-old 10-speed Schwinn racing bike — the subject of much hazing from his younger but better-equipped companions - Edwards led his cyclists forward by bringing up the rear.

"You usually have one lagging behind, but in this case it was me," Edwards laughed, blaming his bulky bike.

Responsibility

The weight of responsibility for the nine 14-to-16 year-olds in his care rested heavily on his shoulders as the soreness from the first day's 21-mile peddling

But the first-time leader didn't really begin to worry until the second day out when his charges left him behind when he stopped for stamps.

"I followed the planned route for 20 miles and didn't see Edwards recalled. He then called the police to locate his lost tribe and found they were well on their way to the campsite.

'They thought my route wasn't good enough," he laughed, when he learned they'd chosen their own way.

But that little adventure proved to Edwards the selfsufficiency of his young companions and it was on that independence he would have to rely when circumstances forced him to send his charges on ahead while he stayed behind for bicycle repairs or for x-rays on some of his accident-prone trippers.

Tow Truck Called

When thunderstorms and an untimely flat tire splintered the group, Edwards was again proud of the ingenuity of several of his kids who, faced with a breakdown in the middle of nowhere, called a tow truck to the rescue.

"I was really proud of them by the end of the trip. They were really independent and could take care of themselves.'

During one separation, Edwards recalls worrying about the sleeping arrangements his young charges would work out since he and a delayed rider mistakenly took the three-person tent which the three girls on the trip shared.

Although he knew that one guy would have to share a tent with a girl, he remembers not sweating it. "I had the Romeo with me.

More than their fair share of problems plagued the group, Edwards said. The first day out, two of the tents were stolen, necessitating more cozy sleeping arrangements than planned. And then two bicycles were stolen toward the end of the trip, forcing the cycle-less riders to board buses between stops.

Miserable Days

"And we had some days you just wish you could have stayed home," Edwards aid Edwards aid, shuddering from the memory of the cold and wet.

In between the 1,100 miles of leg-work were hostel rest-stops in Montreal, Quebec and Toronto, as well as Lake Placid and Lake George.

A new board member of Nebraskaland Council of American Youth Hostels, Edwards has only one regret about his trip:

Toys For Christmas Stores are having produced to the store and is in Stores are having produced to the store and is in Stores are having produced to the store and is in Stores are having produced to the store are having produced t

By NANCY HICKS Star Staff Writer

The Cathy Quick Curls in their light blue boxes are stacked three deep on the shelf and cartons of bright vellow Tonka dump trucks, rising from the floor, tower above a child's head.

It's Christmas time in the city and the department store toy shelves have expanded from a few rows of standard items to rooms of colorful gimmicks, gadgets, games and dolls for America's youngest generation.

And the toys most heavily stocked are often the same ones which children see daily on their television sets. Store personnel in charge of buying toys rely heavily on "guaranteed television advertising." Must Order Early

. Many of the local buyers attend a February toy fair in New York and by June must order their Christmas toys, a. decision most often based on intuition, a set of staple items and TV advertising.

Buying Christmas toys which sell well is important. According to national figures, 70% to 80% of all toys are sold between Oct. 1 and Christmas. And in many department stores the toy department is the biggest single volume department during December.

Buyers from six local stores agreed that the single biggest drawing card for a toy is television advertising.

"We make certain that TV advertising for a toy is confirmed in our area," said Mrs. Margaret Vomberg, a toy buyer for the nine Brandeis stores for more than two decades.

For example Digger the Dog, a new pull toy for the toddling set, has been heavily advertised on television and is in great demand at the local toy centers. Mistakes Made

But even the most experienced toy buyers and toy makers make mistakes, said Mrs. Vomberg.

Last February everyone thought that toys based on the TV series "Planet of the Apes" would be a big seller. Since then the television show has been cancelled and the manufacturers didn't even deliver the toy products, she said.

But for every "Planet of the Apes" there are dozens of toys which make it big during the Christmas buying season.

Evil Knievel and his stunt and crash car, stunt and crash cycle and carrying van, is one of the hottest Christmas items going, according to local toy department

Stores are having problems keeping the daring Knievel in stock and last week one store had only the little men remaining, while another store was left with only Knievel's van.

Also on the best seller list this season are the Fisher Price McDonald and Castle sets for pre-school players, all kinds of racing car and crashing car sets for elementary daredevils and craft items, including candle-making kits and a knit magic machine which puts out knitted items by turning the crank.

Trains seem to be coming back into fashion. The highly advertised Put Put train is a winner again this year. Another wind-up train, the Tomo Train, is selling well, and electric trains, including Tyco and Lionell, are quickly disappearing from the shelves.

Games Still Strong

Games, including the perennial favorties of Monopoly, Operation and Solitaire, are doing well. And this year big games for the entire family - Air Hockey, football - will be under many a Lincoln Christmas tree, according to store per-

Among the 150,000 different kinds of toys available across the nation, there are some old-time favorites which sell well year after year. These include the many educational toys and anything in the Fisher Price or Child Guidance line, according to a spokesman from Richman

For many a little girl and a growing number of boys, Christmas is not complete without a new doll.

Though some dolls still just lie there and look cute, most have a full blown talent. There are dolls that eat and drink, dolls that yawn, or talk, or cry or walk, dolls for the bathtub, dolls with growing hair or curl-able hair, dolls in shades of Caucasian, Black or Indian, man dolls, baby dolls and in-between you-guesswhat kind of dolls.

'Melt Off Shelves'

One old favorite, the Madam Alexander dolls, just "melt off the shelves." according to toy center staffers. These intricately dressed dolls, which came in two sizes, are more for looking at than playing with, and children or adults can collect the numerous models which make up the Little Women, Sound of Music or foreign country sets.

One Lincoln woman, afraid that Madam Alexander was going to discontinue her dolls, recently stocked up. buying a doll for each of her young daughter's next 12 birthdays, at a $180 tab, one local toy department manager

Barbie, the doll with everything money can buy - from closets of clothes to townhouses - hasn't been quite as popular this year, store personnel said. A few new dolls are creeping into the

Other dolls which haven't yet made the top list include Peek.A.Boo Baby who plays peek-a-boo with her blanket when you pull a string and Mattel's Pedal Pretty. Billed as "The cutest thing on wheels," she pedals her trike and pushes her wagon. Dolls For Boys

For boys, the doll line is built more around adventure than tender loving care. GI Joe, now with a life-like beard, has his own helicopter, boat, motorcycle, diving suit, life raft complete with a gun and red binoculars.

GI Joe and his competitors, Big Jim, Josh or Jeff, also have ready-made adventure sets. For about $10 young boys or girls can "Search for the Golden Idol" with GI Joe, and the kit includes the idol and a hooded cobra snake.

While life-like dolls and brightly colored toys that talk may be Christmas best sellers, some toy department clerks personally believe the simpler items are

"This is the kind of toy every child should have." said one toy department manager, pointing out a series of unadorned, hand carved wooden cars, trucks and trains. "A child can make it anything he wants."

Minister Buys TV Ads During Football Games

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) -A Baptist minister is spending about $18,000 to bring religion to professional football fans amongst the televised airline commercials and tire ads Sunday

"We've taken advantage of a large television audience and have gotten a good response." Dr. Truett Gannon, pastor of the First Baptist church, said in an interview Monday.

The congregation provided extra money to produce 10 commercials with the help of WWL-TV, a Jesuit-owned television station. Three of the ads are now used in rotation, one during each National Football League game. Each spot costs about $500.

Toys For Christmas Stores are having producing Knievel in stock and is in Stores are having producing Knievel in stock and the lift.

Star Staff Writer

The Cathy Quick Curls in their light blue boxes are stacked three deep on the shelf and cartons of bright yellow Tonka dump trucks, rising from the floor, tower above a child's head.

It's Christmas time in the city and the department store toy shelves have expanded from a few rows of standard items to rooms of colorful gimmicks, gadgets, games and dolls for America's youngest generation.

And the toys most heavily stocked are often the same ones which children see daily on their television sets. Store personnel in charge of buying toys rely heavily on "guaranteed television advertising."

Must Order Early Many of the local buyers attend a February toy fair in New York and by set of staple items and TV advertising.

Buying Christmas toys which sell well is important. According to national figures, 70% to 80% of all toys are sold between Oct. 1 and Christmas. And in many department stores the toy department is the biggest single volume department during December.

Buyers from six local stores agreed that the single biggest drawing card for a toy is television advertising.

'We make certain that TV advertising for a toy is confirmed in our area," said Mrs. Margaret Vomberg, a toy buyer for the nine Brandeis stores for more than two decades.

For example Digger the Dog, a new pull toy for the toddling set, has been great demand at the local toy centers. Mistakes Made

But even the most experienced toy buyers and toy makers make mistakes, said Mrs. Vomberg.

Last February everyone thought that toys based on the TV series "Planet of the Apes" would be a big seller. Since then the television show has been cancelled and the manufacturers didn't even deliver the toy products, she said.

But for every "Planet of the Apes" there are dozens of toys which make it big during the Christmas buying season.

Evil Knievel and his stunt and crash car, stunt and crash cycle and carrying van, is one of the hottest Christmas items going, according to local toy department

Stores are having problems keeping the daring Knievel in stock and last week one store had only the little men remaining. while another store was left with only Knievel's van.

Also on the best seller list this season are the Fisher Price McDonald and Castle sets for pre-school players, all kinds of racing car and crashing car sets for elementary daredevils and craft items, including candle-making kits and a knit magic machine which puts out knitted items by turning the crank.

Trains seem to be coming back into fashion. The highly advertised Put Put train is a winner again this year. Another wind-up train, the Tomo Train, is selling well, and electric trains, including Tyco and Lionell, are quickly disappearing from the shelves.

Games Still Strong

Games, including the perennial favorties of Monopoly, Operation and Solitaire, are doing well. And this year big games for the entire family - Air Hockey, football - will be under many a Lincoln Christmas tree, according to store per-

Among the 150,000 different kinds of toys available across the nation, there are some old-time favorites which sell well year after year. These include the many educational toys and anything in the Fisher Price or Child Guidance line, according to a spokesman from Richman

For many a little girl and a growing number of boys. Christmas is not complète without a new doll.

Though some dolls still just lie there and look cute, most have a full blown talent. There are dolls that eat and drink, dolls that yawn, or talk, or cry or walk, dolls for the bathtub, dolls with growing hair or curl-able hair, dolls in shades of Caucasian, Black or Indian, man dolls, baby dolls and in-between you-guesswhat kind of dolls.

'Melt Off Shelves'

One old favorite, the Madam Alexander dolls, just "melt off the shelves," according to toy center staffers. These intricately dressed dolls, which came in two sizes, are more for looking at than playing with, and children or adults can collect the numerous models which make up the Little Women, Sound of Music or foreign

One Lincoln woman, afraid that Madam Alexander was going to discontinue her dolls, recently stocked up, daughter's next 12 birthdays, at a $180 tab, one local toy department manager

This doll does just about everything, including mess her pants, and in order to keep the game going, parents must stock and restock the expensive special food

Barbie, the doll with everything money can buy -- from closets of clothes to townhouses - hasn't been quite as popular this year, store personnel said.

A few new dolls are creeping into the

-Ideal's Rub.a.Dub Dolly with water tight, soak proof skin for bathtime play. -Baby Tenderlove's Sweet Sounds, a doll which drinks water, then sheds big tears and also makes "soft baby sounds."

-Baby Crissy and her cousin Velvet with hair that grows and can be curled.

Other dolls which haven't yet made the top list include Peek.A.Boo Baby who plays peek-a-boo with her blanket when you pull a string and Mattel's Pedal Pretty. Billed as "The cutest thing on wheels," she pedals her trike and pushes her wagon.

Dolls For Boys For boys, the doll line is built more around adventure than tender loving care. GI Joe, now with a life-like beard, has his own helicopter, boat, motorcycle, diving suit, life raft complete with a gun and red binoculars. GI Joe and his competitors, Big Jim, Josh or Jeff, also have ready-made adventure sets. For about $10 young boys or girls can "Search for the Golden Idol" with GI Joe, and the kit includes the idol and a hooded cobra snake. While life-like dolls and brightly colored toys that talk may be Christmas best sellers, some toy department clerks personally believe the simpler items are

DOLLS . . . range from elegant to simple and rugged.

Minister Buys TV Ads During Football Games

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) -A Baptist minister is spending about $18,000 to bring religion to professional football fans amongst the televised airline commercials and tire ads Sunday

"We've taken advantage of a large television audience and have gotten a good response,' Dr. Truett Gannon, pastor of the First Baptist church, said in an interview Monday.

The congregation provided extra money to produce 10 commercials with the help of WWL-TV, a Jesuit-owned television station. Three of the ads are now used in rotation, one during each National Football League game. Each spot costs about $500.

Anyone who doesn't worry about the world situation these days ought to have his T.V. set examined.

City Council Compromises On Paying Mayor $28,000

Star Staff Writer

City lawmakers settled on a compromise $28,000 salary Monday which probably will be paid to Lincoln's mayor for the next

Following a public hearing on Councilman Max Denney's proposal to deal the mayor a $30,000 annual salary, Denney attempted to cut the salary back to the present pay rate of $26,875

That proposal lost on a 4-2 vote, with only Denney and Councilman Steve Cook favoring the existing mayoral wage. The council then compromised on a $28,000 wage, with only Councilman Dick Baker dissenting.

Amendment OKd Denney introduced the pay ordinance as a result of the charter creased, because the job does amendment approved last month which set up a new procedure for determining the chief executive's salary. The council is required to set the wage by Jan. 1 for the next fouryear mayoral term beginning in May of 1975.

Denney amended that proposal, however, after receiving some criticism from Charles Kitchen who accused Denney of trying to set his own salary.

Denney has been mentioned as a possible mayoral candidate, although he asserted Monday. that he has made no such announcement and that he did not introduce the ordinance with the mayor's job in mind.

Kitchen argued that the mayor's wage need not be in-

Personnel Director Walt Mitchell reported that in three cities comparable in population and type of government to Lincoln, the following salaries are paid those mayors: Duluth, $25,-260; Omaha, $27,500; and Lansing, Mich. $25,000.

Inflation Compared

Baker favored the $30,000 wage as a minimum salary since, he said, over a four-year period. the average increase would be 3%, compared to an inflation rate which is bound to jump at a higher rate.

The lawmakers are scheduled to take formal action on the salary next week.

In other business, the council did not take action on the proposed Centrum Redevelopment Plan as scheduled. Final action is set for Jan. 6.

The delay came on the recommendation of City Atty. Dick Wood, who said the plan will be resubmitted to the planning commission for another review to insure that all legal procedures are being followed.

Although the council held a public hearing on the redevelopment plan Nov. 18, several property owners and tenants again questioned the advisability of the project, called the project illegal and charged that the council has not properly researched the project.

The Centrum is an $8 million combination parking garage and retail complex proposed for the downtown block between N and O. 11th to 12th.

Tied On Zoning

In further action, the council again tied on a zoning application for a truck sales and equipment operation on West O. The request was made by Rose Equipment, Inc. Another vote will be taken next week.

In other business, the council took under study the request of the Indian Alcohol Treatment Center for $32,000 in revenue sharing dollars

More Liquor At Auditorium?

More alcoholic beverages should soon be flowing at Pershing Auditorium, as the City Council Monday endorsed the broadening of a city policy dealing with the dispensing of liquor at the municipally owned facility.

The council directed the city attorney's office to draft a resolution allowing the sale of liquor at various public events. The new guidelines should be in effect in time for the governor's maugural ball, scheduled for Pershing next month.

The city now bans the sale of liquor at any event which is open to the public.

Pershing Auditorium Manager Ike Hoig said the new policy would attract more events to the auditorium and suggested that the policy also allow the sale of beer at sporting events.

Councilwoman Helen Boosalis asked for a report on liquor policies practiced at municipal auditoriums in other cities.

Hoig pointed out that a provision in the city liquor control ordinance could provide sticky law enforcement problems if the council okays the sale of liquor during public

The provision prohibits minors under 16 from being in a place where liquor is being sold after 9 p.m., unless accompanied by an adult. An adult is defined as anyone 19 years of age or older.

Council members asked for the repeal of that provision, since, they said, it is obvious that the law is being violated now.

RTSD Board Slates Meeting To Consider Director's Post

The Railroad Transportation amount he has been paying for Safety District (RTSD) Board Monday set a special meeting for next week to decide whether to seek additional applicants for the RTSD director's post. Marvin Nuernberger, now RTSD director, was elected to the county surveyor's job, which he takes over Jan 9.

Nuernberger's assistant, John Longsdorf, said he will take on the job.

The board, composed of all three county commissioners and three council members, questioned whether Longsdorf would have a conflict of interest if he were named. Longsdorf is on a leave of absence from the Union Pacific Railroad, where he was an assistant to the district engineer in Omaha.

As RTSD director, Longsdorf would coordinate the efforts of six railroads and the district in improving railroad-street

Longsdorf argued that there would be no conflict of interest. Even while continuing to be on leave from the UP.

He noted he represented the UP on the committee studying railroad conflicts before taking on the coordinator's job with Longsdorf, who is being paid $25,000 annually, said he will do the 10b for $30,000. Nuernberger received $20,000 and out of that office space and telephone costs. Longsdorf said he would not recommend that another coor-

City Council Compromises On Paying Mayor $28,000

Star Staff Writer

City lawmakers settled on a compromise $28,000 salary Monday which probably will be paid to Lincoln's mayor for the next four years.

Following a public hearing on Councilman Max Denney's proposal to deal the mayor a $30,000 annual salary, Denney attempted to cut the salary back to the present pay rate of $26,875

That proposal lost on a 4-2 vote, with only Denney and Councilman Steve Cook favoring the existing mayoral wage.

The council then compromised on a $28,000 wage, with only Councilman Dick Baker dissenting.

Amendment OKd Denney introduced the pay or-sing, Mich. $25,000.

Inflation Compared Baker favored the $30,000 wage as a minimum salary since, he said, over a four-year period, the average increase would be 3%, compared to an inflation rate which is bound to jump at a

The lawmakers are scheduled to take formal action on the salary next week.

In other business, the council did not take action on the proposed Centrum Redevelopment Plan as scheduled. Final action is set for Jan. 6.

The delay came on the recommendation of City Atty. Dick Wood, who said the plan will be resubmitted to the planning commission for another review to insure that all legal procedures are being followed. Although the council held a public hearing on the redevelopment plan Nov. 18, several property owners and tenants again questioned the advisability of the project, called the project illegal and charged that the

More Liquor At Auditorium?

More alcoholic beverages should soon be flowing at Pershing Auditorium, as the City Council Monday endorsed the broadening of a city policy dealing with the dispensing of liquor at the municipally owned facility.

The council directed the city attorney's office to draft a resolution allowing the sale of liquor at various public events. The new guidelines should be in effect in time for the governor's inaugural ball, scheduled for Pershing next month.

The city now bans the sale of liquor at any event which is open to the public.

Pershing Auditorium Manager Ike Hoig said the new policy would attract more events to the auditorium and suggested that the policy also allow the sale of beer at sporting events.

Councilwoman Helen Boosalis asked for a report on liquor policies practiced at municipal auditoriums in other cities.

Hoig pointed out that a provision in the city liquor control ordinance could provide sticky law enforcement problems if the council okays the sale of liquor during public

The provision prohibits minors under 16 from being in a place where liquor is being sold after 9 p.m., unless accompanied by an adult. An adult is defined as anyone 19 years of age or older.

Council members asked for the repeal of that provision, since, they said, it is obvious that the law is being violated now.

The board, composed of all three county commissioners and three council members, questioned whether Longsdorf would have a conflict of interest if he were named. Longsdorf is on a leave of absence from the Union Pacific Railroad, where he was an assistant to the district engineer in Omaha.

Besides players from the United States - including defending U.S. Open Champion Walter Brown of Australia - grand masters from Czechoslovakia, Rumania, Argentina, Spain, Denmark and West Germany will be in Lincoln for the match.

The only way Russians will be allowed to compete, Koltanowski said, "is if (Secretary of State Henry) Kissinger forces them to send players here or else.

Lincoln will also be invaded by 40 or 50 reporters from foreign countries, he said. "The European press follows it (chess) as closely as you do football.

Forecast For Tuesday

Quote from a great Leo of the recent past: "You are remarkable and I hope you continue to keep up the good work." — Aldous Huxley.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Accent is on the mysterious, the Intriguing and on perplexing questions about money, insurance, tax shelters and the like. A business-organizer type is in the picture. Talks concerning promotion and responsibility are likely to be teatured. TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Lie low; play waiting game. Deal with those who are concerned about legalities. Means don't rush. Tie loose ends. Finish rather than initiate projects. Aries and Libra are in picture. Distribution logiam can be alleviated.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): The work, the routine — and general health — these are spotlighted. You meet fascinating people — some are boastful and lack finesse. Keep your own balance and don't compound errors. You are appreciated, even if you thind this difficult to believe right now!
CANCER (June 21-July 22): Good Moon aspect now coincides with romance, creativity, change, your own style and relations with off spring. Trust hunch. Teach and learn. Be humble, not hangdog. You are due for plaudits — and itlated.

Travel or vacation plans should be initlated.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are frank, creative, a teacher and an innovator. You're no angel, however. You can be pedantic, stubborn, self-centered and, with it all, charming. You are made a fuss over by the opposite sex. You are recovering from an emotional bruise. Next year you may go into business for yourself. If single, you marry. If married, there could be an addition to the family.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Ideas, short trips, the "straightening out" of details—these are featured. You may be confronted with challenge. Meet it with grace and good humor. Your cycle is on upswing and apparent setback will boomerang in your favor.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): A change could be profitable. A Gemini knows it and encourages you. This is no time to be ultraskeptical. What you collected in past—and thought of discarding—proves valuable. Celebrate it and don't question your good fortune!

running back, who only last week received college football's highest accolade—the Heisman Trophy, was an easy winner for balloting of sports writers and sportscasters from across the nation. Griffin received nearly six times as many votes as his nearest competitor, junior running back Joe Washington of Oklahoma.

Others receiving mention were quarterback Steve Bartkowski of California, quarterback Steve Joachim of Temple, quarterback Tom Clements of Notre Dame. quarterback Freddie Solomon of Tampa, running back Tony Dorsett of Pittsburgh and defensive tackle Randy White of Maryland.

Griffin was named the best player on 57 of the 80 ballots cast Player of the Year while Washington received 10. Oddly, Anthony Davis, runnerup to Griffin in the Heisman Trophy balloting, was not named on a single ballot.

Griffin, who is the first junior to win UPI's top player honors since O.J. Simpson of Southern California in 1967, established a record for consistency this year which is unmatched in college history. # Ohio State's Griffin Earns UPI Award

NEW YORK (UPI) - Archie Griffin of Ohio State, called by his coach "the best football player I've ever seen," Monday added another award to his already glittering collection when he was named college football's Player of the Year by the United Press International.

The 5-9, 184-pound junior running back, who only last week received college football's highest accolade—the Heisman Trophy, was an easy winner for Player of the Year honors in a balloting of sports writers and sportscasters from across the nation. Griffin received nearly six times as many votes as his nearest competitor, junior running back Joe Washington of Oklahoma.

Others receiving mention were quarterback Steve Bartkowski of California, quarterback Steve Joachim of Temple, quarterback Tom Clements of Notre Dame, quarterback Freddie Solomon of Tampa, running back Tony Dorsett of Pittsburgh and defensive tackle Randy White of Maryland.

Griffin was named the best player on 57 of the 80 ballots cast Player of the Year while Washington received 10. Oddly, Anthony Davis, runnerup to Griffin in the Heisman Trophy balloting, was not named on a single ballot.

Griffin, who is the first junior to win UPI's top player honors since O.J. Simpson of Southern California in 1967, established a record for consistency this year which is unmatched in college history. The Columbus comet rushed for more than 100 yards in each of his team's 11 games and set an NCAA record of 22 consecutive games in which he has topped the 100-yard barrier. For the season Griffin gained 1,620 yards and averaged 147.3

yards per game, finishing second in the nation to Utah State's Louie Giammona (153.4). However, Griffin carried the ball almost 100 fewer times than Giammona and his average of 6.7 yards per carry was the nation's best.

"The amazing thing about Archie is that he's good every week," says Ohio State coach, Woody Hayes. "That means every team keys on him. His ability to spin around and keep his balance is far and away the best. But his mental balance is even better. I've never seen him incensed at a player, official or coach. And, besides being a great runner, he's also an outstanding blocker.

"Hop was a great one, but Arch is better. Griffin is stronger, faster than Hop was. I'm biased, of course, but I feel Arch stands miles ahead of anybody else," says Hayes.

Griffin is the fourth Ohio State player to win UPI Player of the Year honors since the award was started in 1950. Vic Janowicz (1950), Cassady (1955) and Bob Ferguson (1961) also were recipients.

Washington, the Big Eight's leading rusher, finished eighth nationally with an average of 120.1 yards and scored 14 touchdowns. He also ranked seventh in punt returns (13.8 yards) and fourth in all-purpose running (173.1 yards).

pro Bill Kilmer fired three second-quarter touchdown passes and the Washington Redskins beat the Los Angeles Rams 23-17 Monday night to clinch the final National Football Conference playoff berth.

The 35-year old, 13-year veteran brought his club back from a 10-0 opening period deficit against Redskin head coach George Allen's former team to put Washington in the National Football League playoffs for the fourth straight year.

By winning, Washington eliminated Dallas and Detroit in the NFC and moved into a firstplace tie with St. Louis in the NFC Eastern Division with a 9-4 record.

Kilmer helped Washington roll up the most points this season against the NFL's stingiest defense, hitting wide receiver Roy Jefferson with a 27yard TD pass and running back running Larry Brown and tight end Jerry Smith with short scoring aerials in a 20-point Redskin second quarter.

Sports Signals By Bob Owens

Hand-Raising Dangers

After watching six college basketball games so far this season, and reading stories on countless others, I'm convinced nothing much has changed: Coaches still don't like officials and fans can be terribly noisy.

Those things don't bother me as much as the elimination of the rule requiring players who have committed a personal foul to raise a hand.

There still are several fouls I don't know who was the guilty player because the crowd noise was so loud I couldn't hear the public address announcer.

In each case, the official went to the scorer's bench and reported the violation, but didn't use his fingers to signal a number. That helps when you can't hear, provided you can

Basketball players should be aware that in eliminating the hand signal the rules makers said that if a player does raise his hand he still has to do it in an orderly manner.

If he raises it halfway, it's a technical foul. If he raises both hands, it's a technical foul. This could catch some unsuspecting violator because many of the older players still are raising their

It probably would be wise for coaches to instruct their players not to raise their hand because there certainly have to be some officials around who like to call technicals on a technicali-

Coach Conduct A Problem

One rule that coaches violate and get by with is leaving the bench to talk to players in the game while the clock is running.

The rule plainly states coaches shall remain seated on the beach except, while the clock is stopped, they may leave the bench to direct or encourage players who are on the court.

Shouting at the officials to protest a call can get a coach a technical foul and that's what happened several times in the Creighton Classic in Omaha's Civic Auditorium last weekend In fact, two coaches protested so violently they wound up with three technical fouls, which calls for expulsion from the arena. One of them was Don Haskins, who is a genial man off the court but who can't stand to see his hard work as a coach rumed by incompetent officials. Haskins, whose Texas-El Paso team won the tournament.

has had 302 technicals by actual count during his career at UTEP It apparently hasn't hurt his coaching because the Miners won the NCAA championship in 1966 and his 13-year-old record is 244 wins and 92 losses for a glossy .726 winning average.

He is recognized for his ability to coach defense while still playing a running-type game. The scoring average of opponents in the 336 games his teams have played is only 59.3 points a game. That has to be fantastic.

"They get very good position on defense no matter what the tempo is in the game," remarked Gene Robbins, coach of North Texas State during the championship game against Creighton.

Creighton fans couldn't understand what was happening to their Bluejays and you could hear catcalls everytime there was a turnover. It really was UTEP's defense causing all the Creighton had 29 turnovers against the Miners and just 15 against a less talented Santa Clara defense. UTEP forced North Texas State into 27 turnovers in the opening round game.

Creighton's Doug Brookins, who moved into the center spot in place of 7-1 Mike Heck, who died last Thursday, was voted most valuable player of the tournament. Others on the alltourney team were Carn Jones of North Texas State. Vester

Vermont To Keep Equipment

BURLINGTON, Vt. (AP) -The University of Vermont has no plans to sell its football equipment or dismantle its stadium following elimination of the intercollegiate sport at the Yankee Conference school, Athletic Director Denis Lambert said Monday.

"We're going to keep the equipment," Lambert said, "We may be using it to teach coaching or physical education."

Lambert said the value of the equipment ranges from $10,000 to $15,000.

He said he has no plans to make the jerseys, pads, shoes or helmets memorabilia of the 77vear-old football program that died Saturday. He added, "We're going to secure it and make sure someone doesn't steal it from us."

The school's trustees voted 12-7 to abolish the intercollegiate sport to save $200,000 a year for the university, which is suffering from inflation and reduced state aid. The action was part of a $1.2 million university-wide austerity program.

Lambert said the school's growing men's and women's intramural athletic program can make good use of the stadium field. The stadium, with a seating capacity of 10,000 persons, was built in 1922. The current value of the stadium is not known "We will make use of that field," he said "It's too valuable We're short on space anyway. We'll probably move club baseball and soccer to the stadium.'

Meanwhile, Coach Carl Falivene said, "The most important things now are jobs for the coaches and schools for the kids "

Falivene said he will remain in coaching, but has not accepted a job. He has four assistants who also are searching for new employment.

Falivene said, "I have no idea how many players will transfer, but I would guess about 35." He expects most to transfer at the end of the current semester this

Of the 75 players, all but seven were underclassmen.

After watching six college basketball games so far this season, and reading stories on countless others, I'm convinced nothing much has changed: Coaches still don't like officials and fans can be terribly noisy.

Those things don't bother me as much as the elimination of the rule requiring players who have committed a personal foul to raise a hand.

There still are several fouls I don't know who was the guilty player because the crowd noise was so loud I couldn't hear the public address announcer.

In each case, the official went to the scorer's bench and reported the violation, but didn't use his fingers to signal a number. That helps when you can't hear, provided you can

Basketball players should be aware that in eliminating the hand signal the rules makers said that if a player does raise his hand he still has to do it in an orderly manner.

If he raises it halfway, it's a technical foul. If he raises both hands, it's a technical foul. This could catch some unsuspecting violator because many of the older players still are raising their

Coach Conduct A Problem

One rule that coaches violate and get by with is leaving the bench to talk to players in the game while the clock is running.

The rule plainly states coaches shall remain seated on the bench except, while the clock is stopped, they may leave the bench to direct or encourage players who are on the court.

Shouting at the officials to protest a call can get a coach a technical foul and that's what happened several times in the Creighton Classic in Omaha's Civic Auditorium last weekend.

In fact, two coaches protested so violently they wound up with three technical fouls, which calls for expulsion from the arena. One of them was Don Haskins, who is a genial man off the court but who can't stand to see his hard work as a coach ruined by incompetent officials.

Haskins, whose Texas-El Paso team won the tournament. has had 302 technicals by actual count during his career at UTEP. It apparently hasn't hurt his coaching because the Miners won the NCAA championship in 1966 and his 13-year-old record is 244 wins and 92 losses for a glossy .726 winning

He is recognized for his ability to coach defense while still playing a running-type game. The scoring average of opponents in the 336 games his teams have played is only 59.3 points a game. That has to be fantastic.

They get very good position on defense no matter what the tempo is in the game," remarked Gene Robbins, coach of North Texas State during the championship game against Creighton.

Creighton fans couldn't understand what was happening to their Bluejays and you could hear catcalls everytime there was a turnover. It really was UTEP's defense causing all the problems

Creighton had 29 turnovers against the Miners and just 15 against a less talented Santa Clara defense. UTEP forced North Texas State into 27 turnovers in the opening round game.

Creighton's Doug Brookins, who moved into the center spot in place of 7-1 Mike Heck, who died last Thursday, was voted most valuable player of the tournament. Others on the alltourney team were Carn Jones of North Texas State, Vester Robinson of Santa Clara, and Jake Poole nad Gary Brewster of

Vermont To Keep Equipment

BURLINGTON, Vt. (AP) -The University of Vermont has no plans to sell its football equipment or dismantle its stadium following elimination of the intercollegiate sport at the Yankee Conference school, Athletic Director Denis Lambert said Monday.

'We're going to keep the equipment," Lambert said. "We may be using it to teach coaching or physical education.'

Lambert said the value of the equipment ranges from $10,000 to $15,000.

He said he has no plans to make the jerseys, pads, shoes or helmets memorabilia of the 77year-old football program that died Saturday. He added, "We're going to secure it and make sure someone doesn't steal it from us.' The school's trustees voted 12-7 to abolish the intercollegiate sport to save $200,000 a year for the university, which is suffering from inflation and reduced state aid. The action was part of a $1.2 million university-wide austerity program. Lambert said the school's growing men's and women's intramural athletic program can make good use of the stadium field. The stadium, with a seating capacity of 10,000 persons, was built in 1922. The current value of the stadium is not

"We will make use of that field," he said. "It's too valuable. We're short on space anyway. We'll probably move club baseball and soccer to the sta-

Meanwhile, Coach Carl Falivene said, "The most important things now are jobs for the coaches and schools for the kids.

Falivene said he will remain in coaching, but has not accepted a job. He has four assistants who also are searching for new employment.

Falivene said, "I have no idea how many players will transfer, but I would guess about 35." He expects most to transfer at the end of the current semester this

> In his fifth year at the NFR, Robinson is one of only two contestants to have qualified on all three bulls. He has a total of 225 points in the average standings to lead Sandy Kirby of Greenville, Tex., who has 192.

> The other two Nebraska contestants, John Rothwell of Hyannis and Deb Beck of Champion, also were out of the money in their events Monday.

Rothewell took 31.77 seconds to rope and tie his calf. His total time on three calves is 61.83 seconds. The event is led by Ronnye Sewalt of Chico, Tex., with 37.36 seconds.

Mrs. Beck took 17.43 seconds in her barrel racing run, giving her 52.51 seconds in the average. Event leader Colette Graves of Hardtner, Kan., leads 51.26 seconds for three runs.

Fat Cattle Market Upturn Predicted

By JOEL THORSON Outstate Nebraska Bureau

Milford — Lexington feedlot operator Jim Roberts told about 60 fellow cattlemen here Monday he thinks fat cattle market conditions might improve a little in 10 to 60 days but advised against overresponding to the prospect.

Roberts was one of four speakers at a cattlemen's meeting held by Farmers and Merchants Bank of Milford.

'One thing I see a little wrong in our business is this eternal optimism," said Roberts, an independent feeder who fattens about 10,000 head annually. "Every time we get a little ray of hope, we run out and buy the first pen of steers we can find."

If history repeats itself, Roberts said, 1975 will still not offer much, if any, profit to feeders. Desperate conditions similar to those today prevailed in cattle feeding in 1953 and 1963, he said, and both times it took the business a year or two

Roberts said he intends to feed enough cattle to keep his money together, without getting much larger or smaller. Staying in business will be tougher for everyone if some feeders depress prices by trying to

Charges Considered In Accident

Omaha (AP) - Douglas County officials Monday were studying possible charges against an Omaha woman in connection with a two-car traffic accident early Saturday that took the live of Terry Kozicki, 19, of Omaha, and injured several others.

Deputy County Atty. Jerry Kinney said the woman, who was not identified, turned herself in late Saturday night. She was released on her own recog-

Witnesses told police that one of the two cars involved in the fatal mishap was in an accident with another auto moments before the fatal crash, and that a green car fled the scene.

The woman's attorney said she was the owner of the car that fled. The woman was asked about her possible involvement in the fatal accident, but refused to answer.

Investigators have been unable to determine which accident caused the most damage and injury. However, Kozicki apparently suffered his fatal injuries in the second accident, police said.

The driver of the car that collided with the auto Kozicki was riding in, Donald R. Woods, 26, was booked on suspicion of motor vehicle homicide after his release from a local hospital.

Kinney said the accidents pose a lot of legal questions, and that he plans to study all reports carefully before making any

Fat Cattle Market Upturn Predicted

By JOEL THORSON Outstate Nebraska Bureau

Milford - Lexington feedlot operator Jim Roberts told about 60 fellow cattlemen here Monday he thinks fat cattle market conditions might improve a little in 10 to 60 days but advised against overresponding to the prospect.

Roberts was one of four speakers at a cattlemen's meeting held by Farmers and Merchants Bank of Milford.

"One thing I see a little wrong in our business is this eternal optimism," said Roberts, an independent feeder who fattens about 10,000 head annually. "Every time we get a little ray of hope, we run out and buy the first pen of steers we can find."

If history repeats itself, Roberts said, 1975 will still not offer much, if any, profit to feeders. Desperate conditions similar to those today prevailed in cattle feeding in 1953 and 1963, he said, and both times it took the business a year or two to recover

Roberts said he intends to feed enough cattle to keep his money together, without getting much larger or smaller. Staying in business will be tougher for everyone if some feeders depress prices by trying to

Charges Considered In Accident

Omaha (AP) - Douglas County officials Monday were studying possible charges against an Omaha woman in connection with a two-car traffic accident early Saturday that took the live of Terry Kozicki, 19, of Omaha, and injured several others.

Deputy County Atty. Jerry Kinney said the woman, who was not identified, turned herself in late Saturday night. She was released on her own recognizance.

Witnesses told police that one of the two cars involved in the fatal mishap was in an accident with another auto moments before the fatal crash, and that a green car fled the scene.

The woman's attorney said she was the owner of the car that fled. The woman was asked about her possible involvement in the fatal accident, but refused to answer.

Investigators have been unable to determine which accident caused the most damage and injury. However, Kozicki apparently suffered his fatal injuries in the second accident, police said.

The driver of the car that collided with the auto Kozicki was riding in, Donald R. Woods, 26, was booked on suspicion of motor vehicle homicide after his release from a local hospital.

Kinney said the accidents pose a lot of legal questions, and that he plans to study all reports carefully before making any

Omaha Buses Allow Elderly Ride For 10¢

Omaha (AP) - Beginning Tuesday, Omaha senior citizens may ride Metro Area Transit buses at any hour for 10 cents. Until now, the reduced fares Medicaid paid for 63 abortions were not effective during peak morning and evening hours. The regular fare is 45 cents.

Mayor Edward Zorinsky told a news conference Monday that MAT had agreed to a threemonth trial of the fulltime reduction for senior citizens.

MAT Director Jerome Erdman said the major concern with the unrestricted dime fares is the possibility of equipment shortages during the peak hours. MAT Board Chairman Ray Slizewski said that if there are equipment shortages, MAT may seek financial assistance to purchase extra equipment.

Bids Take 2 Leases In Banner

Harrisburg (AP) — Leases for, two parcels of school land in the southeast corner of Banner County were let in a public auction at the Banner County Courthouse Monday.

The lease of one section of rangeland went to Norman Johnson, the prior leasee, for a rental fee of $1,041.60 per year. The lease is for eight years and the rental fee may change during that period.

Robert Steele, with a bonus bid of $800, was the successful bidder for one-half section of rangeland at an annual rental of $409.20. The rental may change during the six-year term of the lease. The bonus is paid one time

A liquor store and a residence across the rear alley from the hotel were evacuated when firemen feared the walls of the hotel might collapse, and the area was dordoned off from traffic for the same reason.

Destroyed in the blaze were the Continental Trailways Bus Terminal, a hobby store, a beauty shop, a shoe store, and the office of K-C Industries, a manufacturer of smoke detection systems.

But the fire was not the only thing that had police and firement jumping here Monday.

Classes at the Ogallala High School got a late start after a telephoned bomb threat.

No bombs were found, and classes started about midmorning. School officials said they understood that on youth had been taken into custody in connection with the threat. About 11:30 a.m., the fire

To top the day off, students were evacuated from the high school early Monday afternoon when a valve on a fuel storage tank began smoking.

Farm-Retail Price Spread To Widen By DOMINICK COSTELLO

Farm Editer The difference between farm and retail prices for a market hasket of U.S. foods is expected to widen in the last quarter of 1974 and throughout 1975, according to William J. Kuhfuss, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Kuhfuss made the prediction as he spoke to the Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation, currently holding its annual state convention in Lincoln.

Kuhfuss predited that the increase in the farm-retail spread in food prices would be 21% more in 1974 than in 1973, which is three times the largest previous annual increase.

Kuhfuss blamed inflation, increases in labor costs all along the food chain, a lack of productivity in the food industry and government regulatory agencies as contributors to higher food marketing costs.

Cost Increas Kuhfuss noted that transportation costs for farmers, ranchers and food processors had all increased because of rules that in some cases prevented return loads, increased costs caused by the Occupation Safety and Health Act (OSHA) and Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) regulations that "add to production costs that must be paid for by consumers either through higher prices or lower output," he said.

Kuhfuss said the problems of the livestock industry are not news to farmers and ranchers but "the severity may not be fully realized by consumers who have experienced only slight decreases in price at the meat counter."

"Feeder cattle prices are half of what they were last year and are seriously below the cost of production." he declared

Kuhfuss said the Farm Bureau had supported the imposition of import quotas on Canada with reluctance but with conviction.

"It is our hope that the decisive and effective action by our government will serve to remind the Canadian government of the benefits of mutually beneficial trade and will induce it to remove its barriers against imports of our meat animals and meat products."

"It will take courage, dedication and sacrifice to teach the goal of control. All of us have a responsibility to be a part of the solution because all of us have been a part of the problem," Klinker said in a Monday

He chided the "administration and Congress" for being "all too willing to spend and grant far beyond their means."

Klinker asked farmers to "do all you can to conserve energy, even though agriculture uses only 3% of our energy resources."

He cited several areas of legislation farmers need to watch to "maintain freedom from increased governmental intervention in our lives."

The list included: environmental legislation, health and safety legislation, trade and export legislation, land use laws, food preserve programs and farm programs, new consumer protection laws, price controls and other restraints on agriculture.

On the state level Klinker oted the establishment of accidental death and reward programs and the employment of a commodity coordinator responsible for setting up new Farm Bureau commodity programs.

Efforts to date in the corrnodity marketing field have involved a beef division and a dry edible bean division, with the marketing of other commodities under consideration by the organization.

Among state problems needing Farm Bureau attention this year, Klinker listed the state aid to education bill, suggesting a formula using the income of patrons of a school district as possibly more equitable for taxa-

He expressed a hope for further relief on personal property taxes and on sales taxes on machinery, repairs, and equipment necessary to a farm operation, which, if successful, is also subject to income taxes.

"Water and resource legislation, land use legislation, no fault insurance, environmental legislation, corporate farming, right to work laws, appropriations and numerous other issues in which agriculture will have an interest also will involve us this year," Klinker said. John Klinker, president of the Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation, warned members at the annual convention that solving inflation isn't going to be an easy

"It will take courage, dedication and sacrifice to teach the goal of control. All of us have a responsibility to be a part of the solution because all of us have been a part of the problem," Klinker said in a Monday

He chided the "administration and Congress" for being "all too willing to spend and grant far beyond their means.'

Klinker asked farmers to "do all you can to conserve energy, even though agriculture uses only 3% of our energy esources.'

He cited several areas of legislation farmers need to watch to "maintain freedom from increased governmental intervention in our lives."

The list included: environmental legislation, health and safety legislation, trade and export legislation, land use laws, food preserve programs and farm programs, new consumer protection laws, price controls and other restraints on agriculture.

On the state level Klinker noted the establishment of accidental death and reward programs and the employment of a commodity coordinator Farm Bureau commodity

Efforts to date in the commodity marketing field have involved a beef division and a dry edible bean division, with the marketing of other commodities under consideration by the organization.

Among state problems needing Farm Bureau attention this year, Klinker listed the state aid to education bill, suggesting a formula using the income of patrons of a school district as possibly more equitable for taxa-

ion. He expressed a hope for further relief on personal property taxes and on sales taxes on machinery, repairs, and equipment necessary to a farm operation, which, if successful, is also subject to income taxes. "Water and resource legislation, land use legislation, no fault insurance, environmental legislation, corporate farming, right to work laws, appropriations and numerous other issues in which agriculture will have an interest also will involve us this year," Klinker said. Earlier, the organization honored Mr. and Mrs. Rodney

The so-called "War on Pover- commitment" to serving the ty" has entered the second decade with new tools, many headaches and increased community visibility, Jesse Payne, Lincoln Action Program (LAP) executive director, said Monday evenine

LAP and its 900 Community Action Agency (CAA) counterparts across the nation, were when the Office of Economic born of the Economic Opportumty Act of 1964

The act's 10th anniversary was celebrated at LAP's annual dinner Monday. More than 150 low-income persons, city and county officials, agency representatives and citizens attended the $6-a-plate affair.

To function effectively in the future, "LAP must reaffirm its poor, Payne said.

'War On Poverty' In Second Decade The so-called "War on Poverty" has entered the second low-income to serving the low-in

decade with new tools, many headaches and increased community visibility, Jesse Payne, Lincoln Action Program (LAP) executive director, said Monday

LAP and its 900 Community Action Agency (CAA) counterparts across the nation, were born of the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964.

The act's 10th anniversary was celebrated at LAP's annual dinner Monday. More than 150 low-income persons, city and county officials, agency representatives and citizens attended the $6-a-plate affair.

> straits for the last 24 months." he said, referring to recurring lapses in federal funding. The problems were compounded when the Office of Economic Opportunity was done away with early this year.

Out of that grew a "new kinship with the city fathers" and county officials who granted LAP emergency grants to continue its two-pronged attack on poverty - outreach, identification of needs and referral, To function effectively in the coupled with advocacy for the

Is Mixed, Sluggish

New York (AP) - The stockmarket was mixed and sluggish Monday, failing to find much inspiration in the Federal Reserve's reduction of its discount rate.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials gained 2.34 to 579.94, and the New York Stock Exchange composite index was up .25 at 34.70.

But the over-all NYSE tally showed 826 declines against only 530 gainers among the 1,821 issues traded.

Big Board volume slowed to 14.66 million shares from 15.50 million last Friday, when the Dow touched a new 12-year closing low.

The market tried to rally at the outset in response to the Fed's action, announced late Friday, lowering the rate banks pay on borrowings from the central bank system from 8 to 73/4 per cent.

The discount rate very often is a key factor in general money market trends, and the move was widely interpreted as a signal of a further slight easing of the Fed's monetary policy. But some investors, apprehensive over the recession, evidently sold into the upswing, drying it up after about half an hour with the Dow ahead only about 3

At that stage the market began settling lower, and the Dow was off a bit by early afternoon, when word that President Ford would give an economic address Wednesday seemed to stir up a little interest again. Once again, however, the upswing drew little support, and prices were headed nowhere in particular when the closing bell The market seems uncertain which way it wants to go," said

Newton D. Zinder at E. F. Hutton & Co. "There doesn't seem to be much conviction among either the buyers or the sellers. A good example of the meandering path taken by many

Chadron Teen's Shooting Death Said Accidental

Chadron (AP) - The shooting death of a Chadron youth Dec. 1 has been ruled accidental by the Dawes County sheriff's office and the Dawes County attorney.

The victim, Royce Reitz, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Reitz, died in a hospital here a short time after he shot himself in the abdomen with a shotgun.

After talking with Reitz's girlfriend, who witnessed the shooting, investigators ruled the death accidental.

Authorities said Reitz picked up the loaded gun by the barrel, but hit the stock on his car causing the weapon to discharge.

Wrongdoing In LEAA Hiring Probed

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Justice Department's criminal division is investigating alleged wrong-doing in the hiring practices of the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, LEAA administrator Richard W. Velde said Monday.

In response to questions at a news conference, Velde said that evidence gathered in the agency's internal investigation was turned over to the criminal division about six week ago.

The probe was prompted by allegations that the LEAA had violated Civil Service regulations by appointing friends of some agency officials to Civil Service positions.

But Velde said his own investigation showed "there is no evidence of any kind that there was any political hiring mill or political referral service."

He refused to say whether any LEAA employes have been fired as a result of the probe, but said that none have been suspended or placed on a leave of absence.

Lancaster County Assessor Fritz Meyer Monday said the law should cause no serious countywide problems with property tax revenue.

However, Meyer said, "Waverly School District 145 could see a reduction in assessed valuation next year."

That might mean less revenue to run the schools.

Meyer appeared Monday at a State Department of Revenue public hearing on proposed regulations to implement the Greenbelt Law.

Taxation By Use The law is intended to aid farmers and ranchers living on the fringes of urban areas who are being forced by taxes and

The law allows land used for and zoned for agriculture to be taxed according to its agricultural headaches as a result of the new value and not its development potential.

> Supporters of the law claimed it will stem urban sprawl and bolster agriculture. Opponents said it would enrich the land speculators at the expense of other property taxpayers.
> The Waverly School District

may have problems because of the large amount of agricultural land on the east fringe of Lincoln which lies in it. According to Waverly Schools Superintendent Dale Siefkes, the district includes everything east of 84th Street in northeastern Lincoln and east of 70th Street in southeastern Lincoln.

Borders Lincoln "We have a great deal of agricultural property bordering Lincoln," Siefkes said.

However, he said it has not said. "Naturally, I'm interested in what it will do. I'll have to visit with Mr. Meyer about it Countrywide, Meyer said, there are "many thousands of acres" of agricultural land which are valued higher because of development potential.

Could Lose a Lot He achnowledged that the county could lose "a considerable amount of valuation if they all filed." Under the proposed regulations, land owners seeking the special assessment will have to apply to the county assessor.

Eventually, he said, the governmental subdivisions relying on the property tax will realize a "windfall" in tax revenue on the land.

The regulations stipulate that once the land is used for non- the special assessment.

agricultural purposes or is sold to someone who plans to use it for other purposes the exemption is lost.

At that point the owner will have to pay a sum equal to the difference betweeen special agricultural tax assessment and the regular assessment for the previous five years. Interest will also be due at the rate of 6% a

Applicable On Taxes Peters said the special assessment for agricultural lands will be applicable on taxes paid in 1976 for the 1975 tax year.

Peters also noted that the attorney general has said land used in agriculture in areas not zoned for agriculture will not be elegible for the special assess-

Meyer suggested at the hearing that the regulations stipulate that a minimum of 20 acres must be owned to claim

Roger Schulz, NAPE executive officer, said Monday NAPE will ask the court to delay the election to give it time to get on the ballot.

NAPE had planned to get on the ballot until the Attorney General's office raised some constitutional questions in AFSCME's attempt to get the election. Schulz said NAPE planned to wait until the issue was resolved before proceeding. NAPE, he said, was not informed of an agreement reached between AFSCME and the Attorney General's office which resulted in the election order.
